Make delivery of on-line orders simple and smooth

Control Picking Flow And Route Planning

Efficient and smooth deliveries are most important for the customers impressions of orders placed on-line. RouteManager secures the planning steps for deliveries of orders and how to use both personal and vehicles most effective. The system will help you find the most efficient way when orders shall be picked and deliveries should be done.

Delivery of goods to the customer is the last part of the entire e-commerce process. This is the part where on-line trade finally switches to a direct contact with the customer. The customer gets his final impression on the order placed. Will delivery arrive at promised time? Has the customer been able to maintain a dialogue with the driver? Is the driver up to date with regard to goods that require special handling, for example age control, goods that have been replaced, etc.

RouteManager helps you handle deliveries to customers optimizing your drive with variables such as available vehicles, delivery times, mileage, etc. and helps to propose the most efficient driving path. All because the impression that the customer will have of his delivery will be as expected.
